

325th MEDICAL OPERATIONS SQUADRON

MISSION

The 325th Medical Operations Squadron is one of three squadrons assigned to the 325th Medical Group, 325th Fighter Wing, Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida. The mission of the squadron is to provide medical and preventive health care to all wing and associated "non - flying" personnel and their dependents. The squadron's primary focus is to enable maximum wartime readiness and combat capability for the active duty, and worry free care for the deployed warrior's family. Every member of the squadron is actively involved in ensuring "fit to fight" is a way of life not just a motto.

The medical operations squadron consists of four flights which include: Family Practice, Pediatrics, Women's Health, Physical Medicine, Life Skills, Immunizations, Family Advocacy, Demand Reduction and Substance Abuse. The squadron provides primary medical care for 16,000 TRICARE Prime enrollees extending available support to over 23,700 beneficiaries in the area. Medical care is provided to active duty Air Force and their families, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve, retirees and their dependents, and foreign nationals, enrolled for healthcare at the 325th Medical Group. The squadron is customer focused with a preventive medicine attitude toward care that is operationalized through timely and cost effective health care.
