The eagle represent the supply complex in action with its wing spread he expresses the versatile and eagerness of the complex in satisfying each and every customer. Whether the skies are cloudy or blue, the operating functions of supply never ceases to serve the customer. The well being and satisfaction of each customer is our ultimate goal. The clawed arrow and lightning bolt shows that supply is in direct contact and support of its customers' needs. The clawed bag represents just what the customer ordered. It also illustrates the dispersal support the supply complex provides the flights. The Gryphon represents the 485 TMS. The stars represents the three GLCM flights and the lightning bolts represents the branches of supply, operating in a quick and timely manner to satisfy the customer's many needs. The complete picture depicts the supply complex in direct support of the 485 TMW as well as the many support organizations. The supply complex is ready 24 hours a day to demonstrate and execute its many talents in providing support to its customers even in adverse situations. Blue and yellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, under which we all operate. Yellow refers to the sun and the outstanding support to our customers. The eagle represents the supply complex and the gryphon a legendary creature symbolizes courage, strength and perseverance of the 485 TMW.
