On 1 September, AIA inactivated three units at Kelly AFB, Texas: the Information Services Flight, the Management Engineering Flight and the Intelligence Combat Operations Staff. 1994

In the fall of 1995, the Air Force Chief of Staff announced it was time for the Air Force to "operationalize quality." To do this, he decided to integrate manpower and quality functions. On 12 December 1996, HQ USAF redesigned the AETC Management Engineering Flight as the AETC Quality and Management Innovation Flight. The wings had the option of creating a Manpower and Quality Office.
